

International Project Fundamentals

Course Description

This course is ideal for every project leader responsible for executing new initiatives or projects across countries. It provides students with a best-in-class, proven methodology to manage global projects. Regardless of industry, regardless of project size, students can now deploy international initiatives like a sophisticated management consultant.

The secret lies in our expert treatment of cultures. If your project has any component outside your country boundaries, or is comprised of resources from different cultures, this 2-day course could be the best decision you make this year. Although helpful, previous project management training is not a pre-requisite to attend.

Course Objectives

At the completion of this course, students will be able to:

- Identify 3 components of culture, and their influence on different countries
- Explain key differences between two major categories of cultures
- Take advantage of governance documents and processes to keep international projects on track
- Customize processes and communications to adapt to local culture
- Employ project management best practices from initiating through closing
